FEMA Disaster Survivor Assistance Visiting Hurricane Matthew Victims

NEW BERN, N.C. – Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) Disaster Survivor Assistance officials will be traveling and visiting residents throughout Craven County in areas most heavily affected by Hurricane Matthew and related flooding. Officials will be canvassing neighborhoods providing registration intake, case status updates, and they will be assisting people with questions and obtaining referrals to community resources and explaining the FEMA process. FEMA officials may be talking to residents. Residents can ask questions and should ask the FEMA officials to show their identification before providing information.

For more information call the Craven County Emergency Operations Center at 252-636-6608.
