

Ask Miss Liza

"Food Security"

Dear Miss Liza: I read where the Craven County Health Department has added a new section to their Food Safety class entitled "Food Security." I heard you are friends with the Health Lady down there. With so many things going on in the world, what's this food security stuff all about?

Dear Alice: You don't remember me do you? Eighth grade? Miss Foster's class? Junior High School dance?... Well you should remember. You stole my boyfriend Steven. I ain't forgot. Now you got the nerve to ask me a question? I got a good mind to put you in a head-lock and pile-drive ya' like my buddies on World Wrestling Federation Smack Down. But I won't, cause I'm a lady.....hussy!

Anyway, the Health Lady said that the Food & Lodging section was attempting to make restaurants and grocery stores aware of measures that can be taken to minimize the risk to food under their control. (Such as hiring procedures, work assignments and monitoring deliveries.) The Health Ladies would like to remind y'all to not get so "caught up" with Food Security that you neglect basic food safety principles like handwashing and cross-contamination.

You probably wondered what ever happened to Steven, my old boyfriend that you stole in Junior High....well.....he's at the kitchen table preparing our taxes.....hussy! Bye!
I'll holler.

Miss Liza
PS- Wake Forest...ACC champs! Go Deacs'!
